

Not demon. Not idol. JUST WOLF.

A WOLF IS, well, a wolf. And wolves are a valuable wildlife resource for Idaho. In fact, wolves attract 150,000 visitors to our region annually. They help improve the health of elk herds and habitat. And most residents say wolves are an important part of life in the West. It's time for Idaho to create a management plan that reflects the value—not the politics—of wolves.
